KNIGHTS WILL DANCE.

With Ladies Fair at the Castle of Mirth and Music.

There will be a scene of splendor and revelry at Madison Square Garden on the evening of Jan. 31, 1894, it being the sixteenth annual reception and ball of the Palestine Commandery No. 18, Knights Templar, the gorgeous pictures of which will not be confined to a narrow stage, but will fill the whole floor space and overflow in the hundreds of arena boxes, the lobby and the galleries.

Medieval Knights in shining armor, gold-chained swords and nodding plumes will woo the quondam of pleased smiles from modern dames and damazels fair, amid groves of nodding palm and whispering myrtle in an air ambient with the odor of flowers and palpitating with music's soft strains.

It will be a notable evening. It always is when Palestine Commandery No. 18, Knights Templar, gathers their friends and friends and their annual reception ball, for the liberal hospitality and courtly skill in entertaining of this Commandery is as famous as their "Crusader" when they returned victorious from Palestine, and have spread far and wide. Invitations have been extended to the Grand Commanderies of Massachusetts, Rhode Island, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Connecticut and subordinate Commanderies, and from the responses received, it promises to be the grandest gathering of Knights Templar ever witnessed in this city.

HIS EXPERIENCE AS A GHOST.

When His Friends Heard He Was Dead They Sent Flowers.

There is a young man living on West Fourteenth street, this city, who was reported dead a short time ago. The Coroner's deputy and the undertaker called and friends of the young man sent flowers. A body was identified by his fiancée as the corpse of her lover, and preparations were made for the burial. It was all a mistake, however, and the young man is still alive, and he has written a very entertaining story for the Sunday World, telling about the difficulty he experienced in convincing his friends that he was not dead. His father was simply delighted when he found him alive and he was assured that his little bill would be paid soon. The writer gives other funny incidents, which will make the most solemn man in New York laugh out loud.
